Applied Science

by George Mineff

"Science should be applied, and there is no better way of accomplishing this but through projects. Plus it gives the student more of a chance to use the material provided by the Academy."

These reasons were given by Lt. Charles Steelman as the motivation for the Science Fair for eighth and ninth graders which was held over Parents' Weekend.

Winners in the eighth grade section were: first place, Richard Sanford; second place, Todd Livick; third place, Scott Clemmons. Sanford did his project on solar power. He used a solar cell in his display and had a complete explanation of its efficiency and relevance to today.

In the ninth grade category winners were: first place, Henry Paderick; second place, William Huegel; third place, Juan Socarraz. Paderick did his project on taxidermy and skinned a skunk, racoon, and other small animals. The project was attractively displayed with complete explanations on procedures taken in taxidermy.

First prize winners were awarded silver dollars. "The silver dollar is a symbol of excellence. I wanted a symbol which represented superiority," said Lt. Steelman.

The Month of Events

The last month of the school year finds parents, alumni, and cadets involved in special holidays and celebrations.

Parents' Weekend was held April 30 - May 1. The Senior Dance was hailed by all. The main attraction, however, to the parents and cadets was the AMA figure, composed of officers, seniors, Roller Rifles and their dates. The band, Barnstorm, was also praised as they gave a spectacular performance.

The next weekend was Founder's Day, which was celebrated on Saturday, May 7 instead of the traditional May 8.

Alumni Weekend followed with great success, due partially to the success of Bellringer '77, a campaign to contract alumni for the association and for Alumni Weekend.

Senior Slave Day with its annual Senior Picnic was met with just as much enthusiasm as in the past years. This was the day seniors had waited for since the beginning of their high school career and they enjoyed themselves, leaving juniors to look forward to next year.

Commencement Exercises are being held Friday, May 27 and Saturday, May 28. The exercises will start with a Junior Roller Rifle exhibition at 3:00 p.m. on Friday, and followed at 3:30 by a Roller Rifle exhibition.

Sponsors' and Graduates' Parade will follow at 4:30 p.m. At 5:00 p.m. the reception for all parents, alumni, faculty and members of the graduating class is to be given on the Library lawn. The literary society and awards ceremony will then be held at 8:00 p.m.

Saturday, May 28 starts off with the Baccalaureate Service at Augusta Stone Church at 10:00 a.m. Closing Exercises will be at 11:30 in the Memorial Gymnasium with the Final Formation at 12:30 p.m.

For Friendship and Loyalty

by Shawn Ogimachi

For twenty-one years the name Cap has been synonymous with the Mess Hall at Augusta. Major Tony Peduto came in 1956. On May 15, he went to Stuart Hall to head the dining hall for Marquis Services.

Major Peduto has been a Stauntonite since his birth. His first experiences in institutional food came when he was drafted in 1941.

His job as a cook was limited as World War II broke out, and he quickly went to Europe. If one ever wondered why his walk is not normal, it is the result of his feet freezing at the Battle of the Bulge. Before his discharge he won the Bronze Star and the President's Unit Citation.

Maybe his ability to relate to cadets came from his Army days as he correctly exacted his stay at five years and seventeen days. Even some seniors have hesitated on remembering their time at AMA.

Cap, short for Captain, has always been extremely close with the cadet waiters working in the Mess Hall. Before this year, under the post-graduate scholarships, most post-grads worked in the Mess Hall to help pay their tuition.

This helps to account for Major Peduto's interest in athletics. Referring to those days of yesteryear, Major Peduto recalls Headquarters Company, an all CW company. The abandoned North Barracks behind the Mess Hall was HQ's residence.

During the peak years when AMA had corps of five hundred in 1959 and the early '60's, cadet waiters numbered as many as fifty-eight. Practically a father to his cadet waiters, Major Peduto managed more than preparing food. He managed up to fifty-eight boys twice a day.

Most athletes of one type or another were cadet waiters and always had the backing of Major Peduto.

Twenty-two years of service given to Augusta. Major A. J. "Tony" Peduto (right) receives the Presentation Sabre from Col. Malcolm H. Livick as Mrs. Livick looks on. (Photo by JRM)

As he explained, "Of course, many of the boys not only played football or basketball, but also wrestling and other sports." With that his interest in sports expanded.

The cadets who served under him always grumbled at one time or another, but around Christmas a bottle of good whiskey or other presents seemed to pop up from no where.

Over these twenty-one years, Cap has noticed a change in boys in about five-year cycles. As the ideas of the nation change, the cadets did also. Major Peduto readily explains differences he saw in the early '60's and into the Vietnam War era. The word "military school" was considered dirty.

He believes this era is past now and that AMA is becoming better every year. Reflecting back and trying to set aside his allegiance to AMA, he remembered AMA and SMA cadets before he was even working at Augusta.

"I would never have anything to do with SMA cadets due to their conduct in town." He went on to say, "Augusta always had an edge on Staunton just because of their conduct." There were exceptions, but on the average that was his first impression. He expressed hope that this would continue.

On May 5, in a demonstration of appreciation, Col. and Mrs. M. H. Livick presented Major Peduto with the Presentation Sabre award for loyalty to Augusta along with a pewter mug. On these tokens of appreciation were inscribed his name and "1956-1977—Friendship and Loyalty."

Yet Major Peduto is only traveling eight miles south to work, and he assures everyone he won't stay away too long at a time. For those interested cadets, he makes his statement public that he won't be chasing girls but working, not only to feed the students, but also with a Meals on Wheels project operating out of Stuart Hall to aid the shut-ins of Staunton.

Maybe he's old fashion, but there aren't many like him. He's proud to be a veteran, father, American, and to have served Augusta. He must be what is called a gentleman for when asked if he had any advice for the cadets, he only had thanks.

As his career at AMA came to an end, he stated, "I would like to thank the cadets and the former cadets, Col. and Mrs. Livick, Mr. Marquis, and Augusta for giving me a job and friendship and everything that went with it."

Streak Ends Season

by Mike Casto

The baseball team finished off the '77 season by winning their last three games. The Streaks defeated Fishburne 8-5 and then swept a doubleheader at Holy Cross 4-3 and 15-3.

Solid hitting gave AMA an eight run lead after two innings of play against Fishburne. The Streaks held on to win 8-5 behind the combined pitching efforts of Arthur "Smiley" Yarborough and Raymond Gentry.

The first game of the twin bill at Holy Cross was undoubtedly the most exciting of the season. After falling behind 3-0, Augusta exploded for four runs in the final inning and then executed a perfect double play to end the game.

A fierce hitting attack led by Jimmy Gounaris provided AMA with a 15-3 rout of Holy Cross in the second game. Gounaris had four hits and drove in five runs. Wayne Frantz belted a three run homer and Rock Butler collected three hits, including two doubles. Smiley Yarborough won his second game in as many days with Mike McKee doing an excellent job behind the plate.

Raymond Gentry finished the season with a .421 batting average, highest on the team. Gounaris, Frantz, and Roberto Robles each hit home runs over the course of the season.

By winning their final three games, AMA's Blue Streaks, finished with a respectable record of five wins and seven losses.

Dear Brick,

Knowing this would be the last issue, I felt this article would be appropriate. I am writing to express a very appreciative thanks to Col. John Dekle, Sgt. Josephson, and Sgt. Don Studer for doing so much for me in my years at AMA and for making life better and morals higher for all of us.

Since my first day at AMA I've found the best thing for one is to have someone to depend on and to talk to unfortunately the majority of the teachers who do so much for each of us are rarely recognized.

Sincerely,
Ed Long

Tennis

Winning Season

by Curtiss Blackwelder

"A lot of hard work and practice made this a winning season." Thus stated Coach Tim Mannasmith as the tennis team completed its most successful season in over nine years.

The season was completed with seven wins and two losses, placing the team in second place in the Virginia Independent Conference standings.

Boris Gabriel had the best season with seven wins and one loss. Juan Obregon and Boris Gabriel teamed up to have the best season for doubles. Shawn Ogimachi won the consolation bracket at the VIC tournament and brought back the first trophy for tennis in over four years.

Competition next spring should be strong because of the starting six players, Shawn Ogimachi, Boris Gabriel and Dean Wagoner are graduating.

Boris Gabriel of Guatemala ready for the serve. Aggressiveness paid off in his seven and one personal season.

Congratulations from all are given to Major Mannasmith, who repaired the badly worn courts in his spare time in the early spring.

Fighting Back

by Christopher Vetic

Fighting back from a two game losing streak to a five game winning streak is exactly what the lacrosse team accomplished.

Determination and overall teamwork proved worthwhile as the Blue Streaks stunned Fork Union Military Academy 7-4, Roanoke Catholic twice by identical 13-3 scores, and North Cross School 11-0 and 8-3.

Col. David Rapp has been pleased with the team's performance and the overall improvement of the inexperienced players. Every year the coach chooses the recipients for the Best Offensive and Best Defensive players.

Accepting the Best Offensive Player award for the second year were Tommy White and Bruce Hoffman. Tommy and Bruce are the best players and the initial ball handlers to pace the team.

Charlie Livick is the recipient of the Best Defensive Player award. Charlie was the key player on clears and overall defenses. Most improved status was given to Robbie Harris and John Guillott.

The alumni also played the Blue Streaks and kept up well until the second half as the team rolled over "the old men" 10-3. The alumni might have chosen a poor substitute for the thirst quencher as a cooler of beer was provided during half-time.

Track Sprints through Season

by Steve Barber

As one walked to Bellwood, one may have noticed about thirty people in shorts or sweat suits. These people were the AMA track team.

The team started only a few weeks ago preparing for the Virginia Independent Conference championship track meet at Fishburne Military School on 14 May. The team had only one full week of practice. The reason for the delay was the disappointing turnout for practices. When the team was supposed to meet for the first practice, only six people showed up.

Disappointed, Lt. Charles Steelman, assisted by Lt. Tom Greenwood, intended to cancel the whole thing. As the days went by, however, more people became enthusiastic about the team. Of the thirty cadets who practiced, twelve participated in the meet.

Ron Spriggs made the best showing for Augusta. He entered the shot put event and placed second with a throw of forty-five feet two inches.

Andre Allen made a gallant effort on the high hurdles. This meet was only the second time that he had attempted the hurdles, and he came in fourth place. David Stokes also made a respectable showing in the 880 run by coming in sixth place.

Lt. Steelman would like to express his gratitude to the cadets who not only ran in the meet, but also to the boys who diligently ran day after day. He stated that this showed real school spirit and determination. Lt. Steelman would like to continue the track team and hopes that the enthusiasm will keep up.
